Welcome, Mindy!

“This is why we do what we do.”

This year, when alums have told us that engaging with YaleWomen has influenced their lives – from deciding to run for elected office, to negotiating salary, to identifying and taking next steps after watching our “Gendered Language and Blocking Bias in the Workplace” webinar (see story below) – we’ve frequently found ourselves saying “this is why we do what we do.”

We also found ourselves focused on the word why in conjunction with the YaleWomen Council’s in-person meeting last month as we began our work to chart a course for the 2018-2019 year and beyond. You might be interested in exploring the tool we used to help us get to YaleWomen’s why – our purpose and beliefs – which will guide us as we develop this year’s workplan. (Spoiler alert for those of you who tinker with the tool: our why will take us to our how and our what!) Stay tuned for more information!

Please join YaleWomen in celebrating and telling the stories of Yale women. Let us hear from you, in our Facebook group or by email to info@yalewomen.org. Our thanks for all you do!

Sincerely,
Susan E. Lennon '85

Support YaleWomen

“This is why we do what we do.”

But we can't do it without you. YaleWomen – through our enewsletters, webinars, chapters, social media, conferences and symposia, and even at the breakfasts at Yale College reunions – connects Yale women alums of the College and the Graduate & Professional Schools and amplifies our voices. Our volunteers possess a vast array of experience and expertise, and they invest countless hours to produce these outcomes. They also ensure that the technology platforms that bring you our website, enewsletter, and webinars work, and that the federal and state filings required by our 501(c)(3) status are done.

If you value our work, please consider making a charitable donation to YaleWomen. We are an all-volunteer, 501(c)(3), no-dues organization, and we deeply appreciate charitable gifts of any size.

You can donate online at yalewomen.org/support or by sending a check to YaleWomen, Inc., 206 Elm Street, Box #2196, New Haven, CT 06520-2196. With your support, we will continue to build an organization of informed, engaged, and dedicated Yale women who have so much to share with the world and with each other! A gift to YaleWomen may also qualify for your employer's Matching Contributions plan.
